MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Central Intelligence
SUBJECT : Carderock Picnic Area

Bill:

We have no information on this situation at Carderock, but Security was aware of a generally unpleasant situation which persisted in the Turkey Run picnic area. In fact, Security representatives occasionally drove by to discreetly monitor the situation, and this had some remedial effect. It is entirely possible that this action also caused a few of the staffers to transfer their noon-time activities to the nearby Maryland area.

With an anonymous letter such as this, referring to a situation which allegedly existed in the summer of 1973, there is little that we can do in investigating or researching the ONE/Potomac connections. I suggest we have OS drive by the Carderock picnic area from time to time, possibly once a week, in order to keep an eye on developments. Quite obviously, OS would not attempt to confront anyone, but their presence would probably be noted by staffers, and this might well have the desired healthy effect.
